NASA, Army sign lease on plant site

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has completed negotiations with the U.S. Army on lease of the northern half of the National Space Technology Laboratories site in Hancock County for location of the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

The term of the permit is for 50 years, with an option on the Army's part for an additional term, and encompasses the northern half of NSTL.

NASA retains Road A and will continue to control access to NSTL through Road A.

The permit also provides for the establishment of a joint NASA-Army Master Planning Board to review construction plans of both agencies.

The Army ammunition plant is progressing on schedule with the initial ground clearing, required before the beginning of construction, now complete.

The drainage system, designed to lower the water table in the area, has also been completed.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is responsible for plant construction which will be accomplished under contracts to commercial construction firms.

Prospective firms have received invitations to bid on construction of the Projectile Metal Parts Building, with bid opening scheduled for early September.

The actual construction will begin shortly after a bid is accepted, said Col. Jerome C. Dondlinger, plant commander.

Skipper Cindy Stieffel, 20, Adams Cup defending champion, and her Bay St. Louis crew of three, last week won the Adams Cup semi-finals at the Rush Creek Yacht Club in Dallas.

They will compete August 28 at Ida Lewis Yacht Club in Newport, R.I., in Adams Cup finals, the U.S. Women's Sailing Championship.

Ms. Stieffel's crew is composed of Ellen Eagan, Judy McKinney and Amy Chapman.

The team is competing in a Shields class vessel, a 30-foot, single masted sloop, according to yachting expert Mrs. Ray (Ann) Stieffel, mother of the famous Sailing Stieffels and no mean hand at the helm herself.

"Cindy won the Adams Cup last year in Flying Scots class boats, and had never seen a Shields sloop before she beat everyone in one last week," Mrs. Stieffel pointed out.

Skipper Dennis Stieffel, 15, with crewmen Bish Stieffel, 14, and Priscilla Kemp, 14, are competing Friday.

Flat on I-10 becomes nightmare for three

By EDGAR PEREZ
A late night flat tire on I-10 in Hancock County turned into a nightmare for three Baytown, Tex., teenagers this week.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said the trio experienced a flat near the Diamondhead exit as they were traveling from their Texas homes to seek employment in Florida.

One of the boys, an 18-year-old, proceeded to walk with the damaged tire to the Diamondhead Service Station while the other two, another boy and a girl, both 17, slept in their vehicle on the roadside.

As he walked along the Interstate, the 18-year-old was forced at gunpoint into a passing vehicle by two persons armed with a pistol, the sheriff said.

The two men robbed the youth of some $140 in cash and threatened to kill him before throwing him out of their car, the Texan told the sheriff.

The two alleged armed robbers then found their way to the van where the other two travelers were sleeping.

The culprits proceeded to rob the other boy of some $80 and abducted the girl, the sheriff reported.

Each of the two men then took a turn at the wheel of their own vehicle—a 1982 brown Cadillac—while the other in turn

NIGHTMARE-SA

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Mississippi Highway Department is awaiting an Attorney General's opinion today on legality of accepting a $1,237,765 bid from Roy Anderson Jr., Inc., of Gulfport on construction of the long-awaited Hospitality Station at the intersection of Interstate 10 and Highway 607 in Hancock County.

John Tabb, Highway Department director, said his staff recommended the Highway Commission accept Anderson's bid-second lowest of three opened Tuesday - in spite of an irregularity in bid forms.

Tabb said Anderson failed to have his guaranty bond on the project countersigned by a Mississippi insurance agent.

"We felt the rules under which the Highway Department operates would allow the Commission to waive that requirement and award the contract to Anderson," Tabb said.

"So we recommended Anderson's bid to the Commission and the Commission accepted it," the director continued.

"But a Jackson Insurance agent brought to our attention today (Wednesday) state laws which unequivocally call for the counter-signature, so the Commission is delaying signing any contracts on the project until the matter is cleared up by the Attorney General," Tabb explained.

The highway director said if Anderson's bid is ruled unacceptable, the project will have to be readvertised sometime in August.

Others bidding on the project this week were Gregory Constructors, Inc., also of Gulfport, with an offer of $1,233,233, and Ragusa Brothers, Inc., who quoted a project cost of $1,458,232.

Tabb said Gregory's low bid was unacceptable to the Highway Department "because it did not include the total project."

He described the Gregory bid as a "stripped bid."

Ragusa Brothers also failed to submit a countersigned guaranty bond with its bid, Tabb noted, describing the oversight on the part of Anderson and Ragusa as a "minor technicality."

Should the Anderson bid prove acceptable to the state, work on the project should begin within 30 days, Tabb pointed out.

Barring the necessity to readvertise the project, Tabb added, completion date is set for Nov. 30, 1979.

The Hancock Hospitality Station will be "a little larger than the one at Osyka," Tabb noted.

The facility will be "as elaborate but at a different design" from the welcome station nearing completion on I-10 just across the state line in Louisiana.

"Mississippi is building six hospitality stations at points around the state where Interstate Highways cross the borders," Tabb pointed out.

The projects are funded 90 percent by the Federal Government and 10 percent by the State, he explained.

"The Highway Department builds and maintains the facilities and the Agricultural and Industrial Board will operate them," Tabb said.

He noted his department receives no federal assistance on maintenance of the stations.

Jaycees plan groundbreaking at home site

The Bay St. Louis Jaycees will hold a groundbreaking ceremony at 9 a.m., Saturday, to mark beginning of construction on a new Jaycee Home on St. John Street.

Mayor Larry Bennett will participate in the event.

The general public as well as all Jaycee members are invited to attend, according to Steve Deubert, president.

"We are planning to construct a 40 by 50 foot, single floor, wood frame structure with natural wood siding on a concrete slab. We've designed the building so that it will attractively blend in with the surrounding neighborhood and be a real asset to our community," Deubert said.

Layout of the foundation is scheduled to begin immediately after the ceremony and all of the work will be donated by members in the organization.

"The first phase of construction which will be the complete exterior finish, is planned for completion on September 30. Presently we only have enough funds for constructing the exterior, and we would appreciate any contributions so that we may complete the interior of the building," Deubert explained.

$1,000 reward offered in Bay Junior High fire

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A total reward of $1,000 has been offered for information leading to the apprehension, indictment, and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the willful attempted destruction of the Junior High School in Bay St. Louis on July 18.

Mississippi Commissioner of Insurance and State Fire Marshal George Dale is offering a $500 reward for information in the case.

Also, a $500 reward has been offered by businesses and organizations in Bay St. Louis for information on the early morning fire.

In 1972, the State Legislature passed a law enabling the State Fire Marshal to offer a reward in school fires. A spokesman in Dale's office said this is the first time the official has offered such a reward during his three years in office.

Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Douglas Williams reported Wednesday several people have been questioned about the attempted arson, with still others to be quizzed on the matter.

The Tuesday morning break-in and fire was the second time within the year an attempt has been made to burn down the Junior High School. On Nov. 11, 1977, a passerby notified the fire department of a blaze in the building. And it was promptly brought under control with only minor damage to the school.

W. J. Cameron, Junior High principal, said yesterday, damage from the July 18 fire runs into thousands of dollars. His desk had to be replaced; his office, the secretary's and assistant principal's offices all cleaned.

Cameron said it will be sometime before the exact amount of damage is known because of the amount of time it will take to remake the schedules destroyed.

Included among those investigating the school fire are the State Fire Marshal, Bay Police and Fire Departments.

Anyone having information concerning this fire should contact the Chief Deputy State Fire Marshal in Jackson at 354-6304 or the Bay St. Louis Police Chief at 467-9221.

In the event more than one person provides substantiated information, the first person who contacts authorities with evidence leading to the apprehension, indictment, and conviction of any person or persons will receive the reward.

Randolph urges unified Hancock School district

Hancock County's superintendent of education told members of the Chamber of Commerce the most economical program for good education in the county is consolidation of the county school system with the Bay-Waveland Municipal School system.

Hancock County Chamber members are concerned that newcomers to South Mississippi are bypassing Hancock for Pass Christian and Long Beach.

Terry Randolph, Hancock county superintendent of Education, agreed that the Long Beach school system is a good system, but at the same time, he said Long Beach has better housing to offer and good financing on housing. Randolph said it isn't hard to find a house in Long Beach.

James Ginn, chamber member and local bank officer, said he thought one of the area's major problems is a lack of educational offerings in the form of civic centers and other types of educational facilities.

Ginn added the reason he has been hearing about people bypassing Hancock County for other areas is poor quality education. The Educational Finance Commission is currently conducting a feasibility study on construction of a Junior and Senior High school in the southern part of the county.

"It would take a bond issue of approximately $3.5 million for the new school, but revenue from recent 16th

Women's Club exec heads Kidney Fund

Mrs. Robert F. Powers has been named Executive Director of the Kidney Foundation of Mississippi, according to an announcement made recently by Thomas I. Rice, III, President of the Mississippi Affiliate.

In making the announcement Mr. Rice commented, "We are indeed fortunate to have Mrs. Powers join us in our fight against kidney disease. Mrs. Powers is a recognized leader in our state and brings with her many years of volunteer experience."

Mrs. Powers has served as president of the Mississippi Federation of Women's Clubs, an affiliate of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the world's largest women's volunteer organization.

She is presently serving on the board of directors as community improvement program chairman for the national organization, having just completed two years as chairman of the Public Affairs Department.

Mrs. Powers is currently serving as president of Mississippians for Educational Television; chairman of the Alcohol and Alcohol Abuse Advisory Council; chairman, Board of Commissioners, Mississippi Education Planning Board; Health Education Task Force and the Inter-Agency Council on Smoking and Health in addition to numerous other boards and organizations at the local, state and national levels.

Mrs. Powers has been actively involved with the National Foundation - March of Dimes, the American Heart Association, Mental Health Society and the American Cancer Society, having served as field representative and an executive director with the Cancer Society.

Her immediate plans for the Kidney Foundation include an emphasis on year-round public education and fund raising to enable the Foundation to minimize patient and community service.

"Kidney disease is a major health problem in Mississippi, and it is imperative that an all out attack be made on this killer disease. This can only be accomplished through a planned program of public education and of course, research," Mrs. Powers commented.

"In addition, we want to continue to develop and expand our patient services, for example, transportation, drug bank and lodging facilities in Jackson for transplant patients and patients receiving training in home dialysis. During the coming year we hope to begin a screening program for young children and our senior citizens," she added.

It is estimated that one in ten Mississippians will suffer kidney disease this year with more men and women between the ages of 20 and 40 losing time and productivity from this disease than any other cause.

Mississippi has the highest death rate per capita from kidney disease of any other state. Annually this killer takes the lives of more Mississippians than highway accidents.

The National Kidney Foundation, of which the Kidney Foundation of Mississippi is an affiliate, is the only health agency seeking the total answer to the problem of kidney disease. Mrs. Powers urges all Mississippians to become involved in the many activities of the Kidney Foundation as it seeks to eliminate this disease.

Bay St. Louis

"The Hall of Fame State of Mississippi," a complete guide to the state's Hall of Fame, has been produced by the Department of Archives and History.

The 32-page, soft-cover book includes a picture and the biographical sketch of each Mississippian of the past whose portrait hangs in the Mississippi Hall of Fame, located in the State Historical Museum, Old Capitol, Jackson.

The Department of Archives and History has been unable to acquire portraits of all persons elected to the Hall of Fame.

The guide is available at the Archives and History Building and at the gift shops operated by the Department of Archives and History at the Old Capitol, Jackson; the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians, Natchez; and Historic Jefferson College, Washington.

The cost is $1 plus tax.

The Mississippi Hall of Fame was begun in 1902 by Dunbar Rowland, first director of the Department of Archives and History. Dr. Rowland invited the people of Mississippi by a newspaper vote to select ten great Mississippians of the past.

The Mississippians chosen in this initial vote were Jefferson Davis, L. Q. C. Lamar, E. C. Walthall, J. Z. George, S. S. Prentiss, John M. Stone, George Poindexter, William L. Sharkey, Henry S. Foote, and J. L. Power.

After this first collection of portraits, selection for the Hall of Fame was apparently by invitation of Dr. Rowland and the Board of Trustees of the Department of Archives and History.

Portraits are now hung in the Hall of Fame upon the invitation of the Board of Trustees of the Department.

Hall of Fame elections are held every five years, and a unanimous vote of the trustees is necessary for election. Any citizen of Mississippi may propose a nominee to the Board, and only Mississippians, native or adopted, who have been deceased at least five years, shall be considered for election.

To date, 85 Mississippians have been named to the Mississippi Hall of Fame.

Cancer Society tells of X-ray, tumor link

The Mississippi Division of American Cancer Society, following a recent episode of the CBS television show "60 Minutes" and other media stories, has received a number of inquiries concerning the link between thyroid tumors and childhood or adolescent radiation treatments.

Beginning in the 1920's and continuing for over 25 years, X-rays were used to treat a number of common, non-cancerous conditions. Ringworm of the scalp, enlargement of the thymus gland in infancy, ear inflammations, enlargement or inflammation of the tonsils and adenoids, inflammation of the sinuses, acne, and other masses of the head and neck were routinely treated with X-rays.

Thousands of people in the U.S. received such treatment because the results were excellent and harmful after-effects were not anticipated. During these treatments the thyroid gland received moderate-dose radiation. Now, years later, thyroid tumors are appearing. Fortunately, the tumors are generally slow-growing and benign (not cancerous). Even when malignant, they usually remain limited to the neck for many years and can be successfully removed by surgery. Only a small percentage of persons irradiated at an early age develop thyroid tumors.

The American Cancer Society, however, would like to encourage all persons who received X-ray treatments to the head or neck region in the past to contact their physician or clinic for a thorough checkup.

Since X-rays to the head and neck are no longer prescribed for certain childhood conditions, eventually there will be no new cases of thyroid cancers linked to X-rays.

Civil War reenactment planned on Ship Island

Members of Company K, 27th Mississippi Infantry, will hold a living history Civil War demonstration on Ship Island, August 5th and 6th, in the vicinity of Fort Massachusetts, according to Assistant Superintendent Noel Pachata, of Gulf Islands National Seashore.

The unit was formed in 1973. Since then it has participated in about 40 battle reenactments and numerous living history events. The battle reenactments are outdoor dramas, often involving hundreds of participants, dressed in uniforms and armed with reproduction of Civil War weapons.

The living history events feature a lot less noise and smoke, but they can be just as much for the participants and just as entertaining for the spectators.

In this type of event, the participants usually set up a camp and invite the public to come into it, to get a close-up view, ask questions, etc.

The 27th includes in its living history performances such things as preparation and cooking of meals, drill demonstrations, rifle firing demonstrations, and the passing of leisure time in camp (music, games, reading, conversation, etc.).

A great deal of attention is placed on making the depiction as accurate as possible. All uniforms used by the 27th are of 100 percent natural fibers, such as wool or cotton, and of the pattern used in the originals.

For the most part, they are sewn by the members themselves to assure authenticity. The 27th strives to show how the common soldier looked in the middle and latter parts of the Civil War.

The various equipment used by the 27th, including weapons, accoutrements, and camp gear, is authentic in construction and material. Even a few original Civil War items are used. All of these items are on display in the camp whenever the unit is doing living history. Also on display are the contents of individual soldiers' haversacks.

Brief lectures are periodically given by the members of the 27th, with each member covering a different topic. Subjects included uniforms and clothing, weapons and ammunition, drill and tactics, life of the soldier in camp, equipment and the hobby of living history itself.

Company K members include Tim Chadwick, Clarksdale; Ray Cobb, St. Louis, Mo.; Clyde Harthcock, Tyler Mann and David Rushing, of Indianola; Marshal Jones, Memphis; Gary Pierce, Greenwood; Doug Webb, Houston; and Robert Whitfield, Jackson.

The public is invited to attend.

RUSSIAN ART

This summer, while political tensions between the two superpowers mount, a major event in cultural exchange between the United States and the U.S.S.R. is taking place in New Orleans. A rare exhibition of Contemporary Soviet Art will open at the New Orleans Museum of Art on Saturday, August 12, and will continue on view through Sunday, September 24. The collection of 33 paintings and 29 graphic works represents the leading artists of Moscow, Leningrad, and the Soviet art centers of Azerbaijan, Georgia, Latvia, the Ukraine, Moldavia, the Kirghiz Republic, and Lkhuania. Sponsored by the United States by the New Orleans International House-World Trade Center, the Soviet exhibition has been sent in exchange for a retrospective of paintings by

New Orleans artist Rolland Golden, seen in Moscow and other cities in the Soviet Union, in 1977.

FAULKNER MATERIALS

An exhibit of materials related to novelist William Faulkner's career in Hollywood will be on display in The University of Mississippi Library's Mississippi Room during the 5th Annual Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha Conference in early August. The exhibit, taken from the private Fulkner collection of Carl Petersen of Waukegan, Ill., is scheduled Aug. 3-5 and will include such items as Faulkner's first contract as a screenwriter with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the M-G-M telegram firing the Nobel Prize author, and several movie scripts, photographs, posters and letters.

State fishing, hunting license net $3.8 million

Although the number of U. S. fishermen declined during 1976, those who hunted and fished last year still spent a record $329 million on licenses, tags, permits and stamps, according to Director Lynn A. Greenwalt of the U. S. Department's Fish and Wildlife Service.

Total income from sporting licenses in the United States during 1977 was $10 million over the same period in 1976 and included $156 million for fishing licenses. This was up nearly $2 million over the previous year. Total hunting licenses sales reached $172.8 million, almost $10 million above the 1976 total.

In Mississippi income from fishing licenses was $1,368,831 and $2,402,999 for hunting licenses during 1976-77.

"Last year in Mississippi the Game and Fish Commission sold some 381,698 fishing licenses and 485,425 hunting licenses," Game and Fish Commission Director Joe Stone said.

"The money we received for these licenses went toward upkeep on wildlife management areas, upgrading our law enforcement program, payroll, and other services which the sportsman expected us to make on their behalf."

"This year," Stone added, "with the new revenue we will be getting from increased licenses fees, we will do more on our state lakes and wildlife areas to upgrade the quality of recreation for those who enjoy outdoor sports."

Last year the number of fishing license holders across the United States decreased by nearly a half million to 27.3 million while the number of hunters increased to nearly 17 million.

"The slight decrease in fishing license holders (across the United States) is not significant," Greenwalt said, "and can be attributed to some States eliminating the license requirement for senior citizens. The 1977 drought also had an impact on outdoor activities, especially in California."

License sales, however, are not accurate indicators of the actual numbers of hunters and fishermen. In several States, one sportsman may purchase separate licenses, stamps, permits or tags for different kinds of fish and game. In Mississippi hunting and fishing combination licenses may be purchased, and state and federal stamps must be bought for water fowl hunting.

Most States do not require persons above or below certain ages to purchase licenses, and many coastal states do not require licenses for salt-water fishing. Mississippi requires persons between the ages of 16 and 65 to have a valid hunting or fishing license, unless otherwise exempt under state law. A license is not required for saltwater fishing off the Mississippi coast.

Don't grab a catfish in Hancock

Only a few more days are left for hand grabbing catfish. The season for this popular sport outlawed in Hancock County, will close July 31 in open areas, according to the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission.

Hand grabbing is the lively sport of actually wading in the water, feeling for and grabbing catfish. Although manhandling a 50 pound flathead catfish is not for everyone, the sport is gaining popularity each year.

Hand grabbing is legal across the state except in the following closed counties: Adams, Coahoma, Covington, Forrest, George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Itawamba, Jackson, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Lamar, Lawrence, Marion, Pearl River, Perry, Simpson, Stone, Tunica, Walthall and Wayne.

According to a Commission spokesman flatheads and yellowcats are caught most frequently, and these may weigh up to 50 pounds. Spawning places, such as stumps and logs, are target areas for capturing these finned animals.

Law prohibits any artificial objects, like tires or crates, from being placed in the water for trapping fish.

Tennis tourney slated Friday, awards Saturday

The Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds Department tennis program, under the direction of Brother Pascal of St. Stanislaus, will stage a tournament for beginners and advanced beginners in the program beginning at 8 a.m. Friday at the St. Stanislaus courts.

Mayor Larry Bennett will present trophies to winners and runners-up in ceremonies at the courts Saturday morning.

Hunters must possess permission

When hunters take to the woods this fall in Mississippi, they will need written permission with them from the landowner or the person leasing the land before they can hunt on posted land.

Passed during the last session of the legislature, the new posted land law should help landowners deal effectively with outlaw hunting and others who run recreational vehicles and dogs across posted land without permission, Game and Fish Commission officials say.

"This law came about," Executive Director Joe Stone said, "partly as a result of the inconsiderate nature of some hunters, mainly those who feel that they can go anywhere on anyone's land, without regard to the landowner's wishes. This is just not right, and our men and other law enforcement officers are going to do something about it."

"This attitude has caused thousands of acres of land to be posted in our state, simply because some hunters will not do what the property owner tells them. Hopefully, this new law will help change some of this," Stone said.

According to the law, at least three clearly printed signs must be placed along each mile of boundary, and one at each road entrance to the land. If the land is under cultivation and contiguous to a body of water or waterway other than a landlocked artificial lake or pond, then the landowners must publish his intent to post the land three times each year in a general circulation publication describing the land.

According to Stone, hunting clubs that lease land must have written permission from the lessee for their members to hunt, and each member must carry some type of club identification with him in the field.

How important is Mobile Medic!

July 31 marks the end of the fifth annual membership drive for Mobile Medic Ambulance Service.

During the past 11 months, Mobile Medic made 1,164 calls in Hancock County. Of this figure, over 1,000 involved moving a person or persons.

If you have an accident, and don't forget many of them happen in the home every day, emergency medical care by a Mobile Medic team could possibly save your life.

Mobile Medic serves Hancock County and West Harrison, with six units. Each unit costs thousands of dollars, for vehicle and equipment. One ambulance unit is stationed in Hancock County at all times, according to a company spokesman.

We realize that Mobile Medic is privately owned, and is supported, in part from tax revenue.

The most important fact is that we either support Mobile Medic Ambulance Service by memberships, and if not enough by them, by tax revenues, or have the county start its own service.

People in the know state that it would cost members and the county more than three times the cost now charged.

Your life could depend upon the type of emergency medical care you receive. Most important, of course, is the amount of time passed before you get this help when in need.

Mobile Medic Ambulance attendants, are trained to render emergency treatment to accident victims before they reach a hospital.

If you have had the experience of seeing an accident on the highway or around town, it wasn't long before one of the orange and white Mobile Medic ambulances arrived on the scene.

Talk to your friends, the ones who have had to use Mobile Medic's Service during the past four years, they will tell you the importance of having the service in Hancock County.

If you need their services only once, and are a member, you will save many times more than the cost of a family membership for one year.

If you haven't as yet, mail $21 today for your family membership to Mobile Medic Ambulance Service. There is a coupon elsewhere in this issue. Tell your neighbors about subscribing.

We never know the day or hour when an emergency will arrive - be like a Boy Scout - be prepared!

ANDREW YOUNG: HOW MUCH LONGER?

The conduct of foreign policy is a very sensitive business, and the diplomats chosen to represent America to the world must be intelligent people with the patience and maturity to deal with every possible problem. After all, our very existence as a free society is at stake.

In March, 1977, I warned in a column like this one that U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young was embarrassing not only the President who hired him but also the American people for whom he works. Now, with his ill-timed remarks about political prisoners in U.S. jails, he's provoked a reprimand from the President.

Maybe a reprimand would be serious enough punishment for a first-time offender. But Andy Young has made a habit of contradicting the official U.S. policy, committing no less than six major blunders with devastating international implications.

The President has run out of excuses to keep him on the public payroll, and I think it's time he resigned or be removed by the President.

I served with Andy Young in the House of Representatives and on the House Rules Committee when he was a young congressman from Georgia. I recall him being a responsible Member of Congress who, in committee, didn't speak often but was worth listening to when he did.

Somewhere along the line, however, Young got the notion that he could manage U.S. foreign policy alone. He paid no attention to the only two people authorized to speak for this country in the international forum - the President and the Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

What followed was a chain of grossly irresponsible actions: welcoming the Vietnamese communists into the U.N.; joining Third World radicals in criticizing the U.S.; calling the Cuban invaders in Africa a stabilizing influence; labeling Presidents Nixon and Ford and the British as "racists." He has become a one-man wrecking crew of U.S. foreign policy.

Andy Young has become, with his latest remark that U.S. jails are filled with "hundreds, perhaps even thousands of people I would call political prisoners," one of the Soviet Union's best propaganda weapons. His remark couldn't have had a more devastating impact if he had planned it as a direct act of sabotage.

I think it's important that Andy Young realize he's not a congressman from Georgia anymore. What he says and does is directly associated with the American people, and he's failed in 18 months to clean up his act.

Since diplomacy is a delicate art and the U.N. is an international arena, America's ambassador must be able to hold his tongue and support - not undermine - official policies.

school system does have a classroom problem, especially at the Junior High. But, he said, Bay St. Louis would never pass a bond issue needed for additional construction.

He said the city's total assessment is $27 million with limited state and federal sources. With all the additional monies going to Hancock County's school system, Randolph believes it is now one of the wealthiest districts in the state.

What is Morning Edition? It is an exciting new program your Chamber has instituted for you. An informal morning coffee that will be held, Tuesday, August 8 at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn. Why call it Morning Edition? - because it starts at 7:15 P.M. and ends exactly at 8:14 A.M.

This month our speaker will be LEO SEAL, president of Hancock Bank. August Scaffidi promises that there will be plenty of coffee and danish rolls available or, if you prefer, order something larger. It is dutch treat and, since everyone starts their day with coffee, why not include good friends and neighbors and a very informative speaker in your Morning Edition?

Who is eligible to attend? All Chamber Members and their guests. No need to make reservations - just be at the Wheel Inn at 7:15, Tuesday, August 8.

Mississippi Gulf Coast Transportation Study was presented to the Board at our June meeting. Fred Wise of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission brought us up-to-date on the progress of a coast-wide transportation study.

Board of Directors were asked to fill out a survey that will be used to formulate a long range plan for the coast. They are interested in the public's opinion on what they feel are the major transportation problems and issues.

New Look - With the help of some Chamber members your Chamber office has become much more attractive - new carpet, the windows will soon be dressed with beautiful new blinds, the counter has been moved, new lamps, etc.

And all this is possible because business membership cared enough to get involved. Stop by and see what we look like! You will be proud the next time someone new stops by your Chamber for information about your business. We sincerely thank those who helped to improve our office.

Governor's Youth Fishing Rodeo will be held at Buccaneer State Park, Saturday, July 29. Ages 5-15 are eligible to participate.

Litter starts at home

Dear Sir:

After a hot weekend, litter along the beach could fill Grand Canyon. Bottles and cans and paper and styrofoam and plastic this and that...it's ridiculous.

Maybe that's the price of entertaining so many tourists. Maybe. But I don't think a tourist threw that junk refrigerator in the ditch near Clermont Harbor. No, that probably was local talent, setting an example for the tourists. And that's where the heartache begins: Welcome to Hancock County - Throw us something, Mister.

Of course, have you been to the county dump lately? It used to be near Hwy. 90; but NASA couldn't start their engine with all that garbage upwind, so now the dump is halfway to Memphis. It's a friendly dump, with courteous, full-time attendants; however, it's twenty miles from town... and that probably helped that refrigerator fall in the ditch near Clermont Harbor.

You've featured articles with pictures on litter many times, and I appreciate your stance.

But how about doubling it, with concentration on the home front? This is a special place to live, and I look forward to the day when we really start treating it that way. We definitely have a litter problem; but it definitely starts at home.

Thank you,
Chris Hall

Metrics to bring chaos

Dear Sir:

I read with interest and deep concern the valuable article with information on the Metric System in your issue of July 20th.

I would advise all Senior Citizens to take heed of the timely advice given by Mr. Paul Plavuin at the National Press Club, to write letters to the address given, expressing their views against this oppressive monstrous measure of force the Federal government plans to upset and add chaos to our tranquil years.

The article is on Page 2A, Captioned "Lobbyist reveals gloomy view of Metric Conversion." The address is on 3rd column, last paragraph.

SCLC, Farm

Bureau at odds on Young

The Echo's Ag Affairs column by Ed Blake of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation Thursday carried a report on a letter to President Carter from American Farm Bureau official Allan Grant of California opposing U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young's remarks on political prisoners.

Southern Christian Leadership Conference President Dr. Joseph E. Lowery, on the other hand, has wired his support of Young to the Ambassador.

Following is a SCLC report on its support of Young:

In a cable to Andrew Young, SCLC President Rev. Dr. Joseph E. Lowery told the U.N. Ambassador: "I fully support you in this situation which has arisen because you dared say that the United States, too, has political prisoners. I entreat you to maintain the honesty and integrity that have characterized your ambassadorship. America desperately needs your perspective in government."

Since a French newspaper published Young's remarks, the media have been filled with quoted statements that he should be impeached, fired or "muzzled." Dr. Lowery noted that many reports of the interview did not explain the context of Young's statement.

"I think there's a great deal of overreaction to what Andy said," Dr. Lowery commented in a televised interview. "First, there are still some people in this country who have accepted the fact that a black person holds a high and sensitive post in the world of diplomacy."

"Secondly, there can be no gain-saying that the political, economic and judicial system has mitigated against the poor, against the black. They go to jail when they are accused and convicted of violations, while those with affluence and influence go to sandy shores, to resort beaches, and stay out of jail."

Regarding the charge that Young's statements undermined the U.S. position regarding Soviet dissidents, Dr. Lowery stated, "Andy said nothing new. Russia learned nothing new. The Russians are aware of and have exploited our human rights problems to the maximum."

Adios, Amigos

Dear Editor:

On Thursday, July 27, I will be returning to my home in Salvador, Bahia, Brazil. My stay in Waveland at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Klein, I will always remember as a very happy experience.

As an exchange student I came to Waveland on January 9 and was accepted as a senior student in Bay High School. So many nice things have happened to me!

Mrs. Klein is like a second mother. She and her good husband seemed to understand that I was lonely for my family and showed me so much love and understanding until within two weeks I felt perfectly at ease.

Mamma Klein is a wonderful cook, and makes the world's best redfish stew. I really enjoy Southern style cooking. When I was in Michigan I had trouble eating the food.

Going to school was a pleasure. The teachers were all so pleasant and the class mates were very helpful with teaching me the Mississippi customs and conversational English.

I had studied English for seven years, but you have to hear it at your age-level to really understand some of the expressions and slang.

I plan to help those in my city who want to learn English better.

One of the high lights of my stay in Waveland was having an Honorary Citizen certificate presented to me by Mayor John Longo and his Board of Aldermen. My parents, too, are so pleased. They have talked with me over the phone on four occasions and they deeply appreciate all the courteous things people have done for me.

When I first came to this area the Sea Coast Echo printed a story about me and other exchange students.

That was helpful and we became known right away. Because of the article several people looked me up and I received many nice party invitations.

And now, so many parting gifts and souvenirs - I have mailed out boxes of them and will carry some on the plane with me.

These things will help me to explain how generous and gracious Mississippi people are.

I will not have time to say my good byes and good wishes to all of my friends and your printing this letter in your paper will let them know how glad I am to have been a Mississippi resident for these pleasant six months.

I will, of course, be happy to get back to Bahai for I have missed my family, but I look forward to the time when I can once again visit in Mississippi.

I have traveled in seven European countries and also in other parts of the United States, but I have never known people anywhere so warm and friendly as those I have known here.

This letter expresses my thanks to each one of them and to you and your staff. My warm good wishes.

Hancock well fire sputters

By RANDY PONDER

Hancock County's first major gas well fire has all but burned itself out. The fire which started last Thursday from leaking gas ignited by a gas dryer, has dropped from approximately 100 feet in height to almost nothing.

Boots Hansen of Boots and Coots Oilwell Firefighters, Inc., and officials of Phillips Petroleum Co., who were on the scene of the Fire Friday have already returned to their home offices in Houston, Texas.

Because of these developments, an alternate method of extinguishing the well fire is reportedly being discussed by the Phillips people and Boots Hansen.

However, Jere Smith, public relations director of Phillips, said, "We are continuing with our original plans of drilling a directional well below the leaking gas in the existing well."

A special mud compound will then be pumped into the well to cut off the flow of gas to the surface, thus starving the fire. This method will take about 50 days to complete.

The burning well, which was reportedly losing 1.3 million cubic feet of gas per day, is one of more than 30 gas wells that Phillips Petroleum has in various stages of operation in Hancock County.

Hancock County Chief Deputy Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said that there has been no great problem with sightseers at the burning well.

Even so, there is an auxiliary deputy on guard duty at the entrance to the well.

"This is a precautionary move to prevent any unauthorized persons from getting too close to the fire," Peterson pointed out.

Carey sponsors workshop on prison ministry need

Dr. Paul D. Schoonmaker, author of the book The Prison Connection, will lead a one-day workshop on "The Church and the Prisoner" on the Gulf Coast on August 22.

The workshop is designed as preparation for Christian groups interested in beginning prison ministries.

A graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Schoonmaker is pastor of Royersford, Pa., Baptist Church. He earned the D. Min. at San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Schoonmaker's book grew from the struggles and discoveries of a group of dedicated Christians in his church who saw and responded to the needs of inmates of Graterford Prison.

Using the experiences of that group, he suggests ways others may undertake such a ministry.

With the Bible as background and his book as text, Schoonmaker will help workshop participants to recognize the needs of prisoners; to identify problems in today's prison system; and to plan an effective program of ministry.

According to Dr. Schoonmaker, the workshop will be quite informal, with ample time for discussion and attention to individual needs and situations.

Coordinated by William Carey College, the workshop will be held at the Holiday Inn, Gulfport. It meets from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. with lunch provided at no cost. Fee for the workshop is $19.00.

For further information, contact Carey on the Coast at 896-4455.

NORDA head addresses U.S. administrators

Thirty people representing 20 different federal agencies, including NASA-NSTL in Hancock County, attended the quarterly meeting of the Mississippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators at the Officers Club recently at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi.

Maj. Gen. John S. Pustay, president of MCAFA this year and commander of the Keesler Technical Training Center, praised the group for fine work and stressed the importance of exerting additional effort in helping each other with training and services.

The general expressed his desire that MCAFA be a vital functioning organization and that it assume larger responsibilities in the future. Capt. Charles G. Darrell, commander of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity at NSTL and Major Donald J. Godlewski, director of safety for Keesler, were the principal speakers at the MCAFA meeting.

Darrell explained the functions of the three Naval activities located at the National Space Technology Laboratories while Godlewski discussed the goals and status of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Field Federal Safety and Health Council, which is administered under the Department of Labor.

Two MCAFA members reported on training activities and the awards chairman solicited nominees for the Gulf Coast federal employee of the year. Last year, Keesler's Clayton Thompson received the employee of the year honor from MCAFA.

Consumer hotline use up on aluminum wire

Promoted by media coverage on aluminum wiring causing home fires, the Consumer Product Safety Commission's Consumer Hotline in June received the largest volume of calls in its five-year history.

An estimated 90 per cent of the record 15,000 calls came from consumers requesting more information about this product hazard.

Kenneth Giles, chief of the Consumer Services Branch of CPSC's Office of Communications, says that the Hotline receives an average 6,000 calls per month. More telephones are being installed to handle the extra quantity of calls, which at last count, were up to 1,000 per day.

The Hotline is a toll-free, 24-hour service for consumers who wish to report possible defects, injuries, or accidents associated with consumer products.

By dialing 800-638-2666, consumers have voiced safety complaints about products such as smoke detectors that overheat and explode and products with "child-resistant safety caps" which can be opened easily by youngsters.

CPSC publications, such as a booklet on aluminum wiring, may be obtained by requesting them through the Hotline.

Calls which deal with food, drugs, cosmetics, radiation, cars and tires are referred to other Federal agencies which have jurisdiction over these products.

Once a call is received by Giles or his five-member Hotline team, the information is coded and passed on to data analysts in various divisions of the Commission. The CPSC technical staff uses such data to determine if further investigations or recalls may be in order.

Talent dots basketball all-star lineup

Two Mississippi State women's athletics signees will be competing for the North squad in the annual Mississippi High School All-Star Basketball Game in Jackson at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Forward-center Belinda Woods, a 6-0 graduate of Duck Hill High School, and 5-8 guard Debbie Dotson of Winona will perform for the Yanks in the clash at Mississippi Coliseum.

Woods, who aided Duck Hill to a composite record of 69-7 as a starter over her final two seasons, will be making her third appearance in the Coliseum since February.

Earlier, the talented frontcourter helped DHHS captured the Class B state girls' title before her club fell by one point in the state finals for the "Grand Slam" championship to defending state-titlist Harrison Central of Gulfport.

"Averaging 13.8 points per game and 13 rebounds per tilt as a senior, Woods was a first team All-State choice, as her squad went 37-2 in 1977-78.

One of the finest women's tennis players in Mississippi, the active Dotson averaged 13.8 points per game in basketball for Winona High School in 1977-78.

"She is the No. 1 ranked 16-and-under singles tennis player in the state and has been atop her age group on the net ladder for the past four years statewide.

Both Dotson and Woods were named to All-District and All-Conference squads a total of eight times during their careers, and Woods was also a standout for the Duck Hill girls' track team as a 100- and 440-yard dash performer.

"We are delighted to have these young women competing in the All-Star Game," noted MSU Women's Athletics Coordinator Libba Birmingham.

"Of course, Belinda will be playing basketball for us, and Debbie will be a varsity tennis player in 1978-79," she added, "but they are two of the most versatile athletes in the Mississippi area."

Mental Health Center funded on Waveland School project

By EDGAR PEREZ federal health care funds in the state, last week approved grants totaling $138,590 for the Center's consultation and education program, and $205,884 for children and youth services.

Dr. G. Kinsey Stewart, director of the center, which is headquartered in Gulfport, said federal funding will cover 45 percent of those total program costs, with most of the remaining 55 percent to come from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone, the four counties served by the Center.

Dr. Stewart noted continuation of the children and youth services funding will mean a continuation of the testing and evaluation program at Waveland Elementary.

The children and youth services program at the Center is currently in its fifth year, and the Waveland program will move into its third year, he added.

At the Waveland school, Center staff members have worked two days a week with teachers, parents and students on all grade levels in the early identification of emotional disturbances, Dr. Stewart said.

Also in Hancock County, the Center, under the consultation and education program, is planning classes on effective parenting.

That program will reach into parent-teacher organizations and law enforcement units as well, the doctor explained.

On continuation of the grant for consultation and education, the Health Systems Agency's board noted the need for the program is well established; the program is economically feasible; and has exhibited an excellent service record.

HSA's board said the children and youth service program at the Center is also economically feasible; exhibits an established need; and conforms to existing plans for such programs.

Dr. Stewart said HSA is primarily designed to insure federally supported health care is delivered where it is needed in the state without overlap and duplication.

He noted the HSA board approval of fund applications virtually assures the Mental Health Center will receive the money.

HSA said the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center programs are among eight projects at five health care facilities in the state approved at the July 21 directors meeting in Jackson.

The agency noted the projects had all been previously considered at public hearings in appropriate Subarea Advisory Council districts to be affected.

CHAMBER DIRECTOR - Wayne Ducomb of Mississippi Monitor Publications has been named to the board of directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce to fill the unexpired term of Jay Triche who resigned from the board due to pressing business matters. Ducomb is also campaign chairman for the 1978 United Way fund drive in Hancock County.

The festival is sponsored by St. Paul's Catholic Church, with proceeds earmarked for St. Paul's Elementary School.

The 1977 Festival Queen Barbara Davis will crown this year's queen, Crystal Nicaise, in ceremonies Friday evening.

Miss Nicaise is a 1976 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

A disco-dance contest for three through six-year-olds will be featured at 6 p.m. Sunday. First, 2nd and 3rd place winners will be named in "Little Miss" and "Little Beau" categories.

Ben Carrubba is festival treasurer, and E. Davis McCutcheon is in charge of publicity.

McCutcheon said Wednesday the seven-story, red and white Frey hot air balloon will be on the beach across from the park during the Festival.

Sailing...

Saturday and Sunday at Southern Yacht Club in New Orleans in semi-finals for the Sears Cup, U.S. Junior Sailing Championships for youth 13 through 17-year-olds.

The trio placed second in Sears Cup quarter-finals last weekend at St. Andrews Bay Yacht Club, Panama City, Fla. Smith finished in 10th place, according to Skipper Dennis Stieffel, who added the competition in New Orleans this week will be waged in Thistle class boats.

The Stieffel brothers are St. Stanislaus students and Ms. Kemp attends Ecole Classique in New Orleans.

If the Stieffel-Stieffel-Kemp combination is successful in New Orleans, they will move on to Sears Cup finals in San Diego, Calif., Aug. 20.

At the SVC competition, the trio must place first to be eligible for the San Diego finals, Dennis noted. He said first place winners in the quarter-finals in Panama City last week are unable to compete in New Orleans this week.

Also at Panama City last weekend, Randy Santa Cruz of Bay St. Louis placed first in the quarter-finals of the Smythe Cup races, the U. S. Junior Club in 1980.

Single-handed Sailing Championships. Young Santa Cruz, who teaches sailing at St. Stanislaus this summer, will join the others at Southern Yacht Club this weekend to compete in Smythe Cup semi-finals.

Skipper Beau LeBlanc and crewman Elizabeth Santa Cruz, both of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, captured the Benito Cup quarter-finals at St. Andrews last weekend.

The pair also moved on to SVC this week for semi-final races for the Benito Cup, the U.S. Junior Double-handed Sailing Championship.

Mallory Cup contender from Bay St. Louis is Bobby Eagan, who placed second in the quarter-finals of that event in Panama City.

Eagan's crew in the St. Andrews races was composed of Ed Turnipseed of Bay-Waveland Yacht Club and Ellen McBride of Panama City.

Ms. Stieffel said Mallory Cup contenders are allowed to change crew members in different brackets of competition, and Eagan's crew for the semis in New Orleans this week is uncertain.

Finals of the Mallory Cup - U. S. Men's Sailing Championship - will be hosted by the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club in 1980.

Waveland police aid in capture

The Waveland Police Department, in cooperation with the Harrison County sheriff's office, this week arrested a Long Beach man and woman in connection with a Saturday night armed robbery of Little Italy Restaurant in Waveland.

Charged by Waveland police with armed robbery are Garrett Allen Ford, 21, Long Beach, and Mary Patricia Allen, 27, both of 533 Beatline Road, Long Beach.

Ford is also charged in Harrison County with a December, 1977, armed robbery of Little Italy Pizza, 1061 Broad Avenue, Gulfport.

He is charged there in addition with theft of a truck belonging to the same firm.

Investigators Robert Tartavouille and Sandra Hehley of Waveland police Department said the accused are being held in the Harrison County jail. Ford's bond is $10,000 and Allen's is $2,500.

raped the young girl, according to the sheriff's report.

In the process of abducting the girl and robbing the younger boy, the two men also stole a television, eight-track stereo, jewelry box and purse from the van.

Answering the initial report of the incident to the sheriff's office at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday were Deputies Ronnie Peterson, Paul Bernard, Ronnie Cuevas and Dennis Lynch.

The deputies immediately broadcast a description of the suspects who were spotted on Hwy. 49 in Harrison County approximately one hour later.

Captain Rod Hamilton and Deputies Jerry Langford and George McNeill were patrolling on Hwy. 49 when they spotted the suspects' Cadillac.

The Harrison County sheriff's officers said the two suspects denied the allegations of the Texas youth when first confronted with the accusations.

The deputies added, however, that the articles allegedly stolen from the three youths were found in the suspects' car.

Sheriff Ladner said the two suspects were placed in a lineup in the Hancock County jail and positively identified by the three Texans.

The sheriff identified the two accused men as Eddie Beals, 25, of 1604 Howard Ave., Brownsville, and Jerry Lewis Holton, 21, of 1309 Dupont St., Pascagoula.

They are lodged in the Hancock County jail without bail on charges of armed robbery, rape, kidnap and aggravated assault, according to the sheriff.

STIR-FRY VEGETABLES

Add new interest to old favorites by stir-frying vegetables for your next meal.

Whether the vegetable is prepared alone or with other vegetables, it is a flavorful, crunchy treat. Stir-frying vegetables also saves minerals, vitamins and flavor.

To prepare vegetables this quick and easy way, -Cut vegetables in slices, shreds, slivers or on the bias.

-Heat two tablespoons of vegetable oil per four cups of vegetables. Add 1/2 tablespoon of salt and stir.

-Pour in vegetables and stir over high heat for a few seconds until they're well coated with oil.

-Add 1/2 cup liquid and stir a few seconds over high heat.

-Cover, lower the heat and simmer 3-5 minutes. The vegetables will have a crunchy texture.

CLEANING GLASS

You can use commercial products to clean glass or you can make your own.

A good homemade solution can be either 1/2 cup vinegar or one-third cup ammonia in one gallon of water.

In addition to the cleaning solution you will need clean cloth for washing, drying and shining, or paper towels; a step ladder, step stool or sturdy chair and a wiskbroom or brush.

Set bucket of water on paper near the glass you will clean. Brush window frame and sills to remove dust. Wash mirror or window panes with wet cloth of solution. Wash from top to bottom. Rub well to get all soil.

Wipe mirror or window sills with dry cloth or paper towels (Crumpled newspapers with lots of black ink exposed will take off moisture without streaking). Do not work in direct sunlight or water will streak.

You may wax. A glass wax is desirable and offers more protection.

WHITE SYNTHETICS
White synthetics (polyester, acrylic or nylon fabrics) often become dingy. We don't notice the discoloration until it gets severe, then it's almost too late.

The best cure, as with most things, is prevention. White synthetics should be laundered often and when only lightly soiled. Wash white items and only very light colors together. Light colors pick up any dye loosened during the wash. Use a regular laundry detergent, and use enough depending on the softeners or hardness or your water.

Pretreating or soaking dirty items help prevent soil buildup. Use chlorine bleach on those items that can be bleached. Check care labels.

Be sure to follow label directions as to amount and diluting. Use an all-fabric bleach if the items cannot be bleached with chlorine. This product should be used in every load; it prevents better than it cures.

FABRIC SOFTENER

Be careful when you add fabric softener to a load of clothes in the washer. Frequently homemakers ask about stains on their clothes, stains that appear to be caused by minerals in the water or something wrong with the machine. They are caused by pouring undiluted fabric softener directly onto clothes.

These stains fooled experts, and the real culprit was not discovered until a researcher investigated the problem. This researcher suggested that "care in adding the softener to the washer should help prevent the stain." To remove such a stain, boil the items in a solution of water and 2 oz. of dishwater detergent; rinse adequately.

Judge issues warning in anti-litter drive

The Pass Christian Anti-Litter Committee, at a meeting Tuesday, called on all persons to avoid the throwing of cans, bottles, and papers on the city streets, sidewalks, and beaches.

Avoidance of litter will make the city more attractive, the committee emphasized. City Judge Frank P. Wittman III, in a letter to the committee, stated "I call your attention to the fact that we have an anti-litter law in Pass Christian. I can assure you that, in the future as in the past, this court will not be inclined to deal leniently with anyone convicted of this offense."

The committee also is urging all property owners in the city limits to take immediate steps to cut overgrown grass and weeds to improve appearance of properties.

The Anti-litter committee is composed of Miss Adele Bielenberg, Mrs. Lillian Dillard, Mrs. Nelson Lang, Mrs. Farnell McKay, Miss Jane Northrop with E. Davis McCutcheon, chairman.

USM-Coast offers psych. ed courses

A publication is available at the Gulf Coast Campus of the University of Southern Mississippi in Long Beach that details the courses to be offered on the Coast each term next year in the division of education and psychology.

This tentative schedule was developed to assist students on the Gulf Coast in planning their program of studies several terms in advance," said Dr. Theron Manly, division director.

This schedule does not include all the courses that are offered on the Gulf Coast, rather it includes courses which are a part of degree programs offered through the division of education and psychology," he noted.

Copies of the schedule are available from any USM center on the Coast, Long Beach, Keeler and Jackson County Junior College, or a copy will be mailed by making a request by telephone to 663-6232.

True education can't be bought, must be earned

Preparation for the future is the one big thing that occupies the minds of almost everyone.

How many times have we heard this statement: "We are going to give our child a good education." The problem of preparedness is predominately the problem of preparing our children for the future—expressed another way, of giving our children an education to train them for their future lives. It is important that we understand just what giving a child an education means.

History down through the ages shows that as long as a nation was young, working and growing—as long as the people were struggling and overcoming problems, that nation was strong, it was prepared; but when the struggle had stopped, or slowed down, the strength of its people waned, for their strength had come from the struggle, from their being always busy at work. When the people became better off and surrendered to easy living and indulgence, they became fat, stall fed weaklings. It was then, according to history, that they fell victims of younger, struggling, harder nations who came in and conquered them.

All over America, right here around us, are fathers and mothers who have worked and struggled and have become strong men and women through their struggles, who are saying, "Our children shall have better chances than we had, we are going to give them the best education we can."

Then, forgetful of how they themselves became strong, they plan to take away from their children the one thing that will make them strong—their opportunity to become strong and prepared—through struggle, and service and overcoming problems.

Many of what we call advantages are often disadvantages. The boy who has to work for what he gets, educationally and otherwise, is indeed fortunate for it is the work and struggle that makes a man out of him.

Does any one, DO YOU think that you can buy a child an education—that you can buy wisdom, strength, understanding, discipline, that you can buy any brand of education you want, the home brand or send off to other places just like ordering off for merchandise?

Well, fathers and mothers cannot buy their children education. All they can do is to buy them the tools, and give them the opportunity. The children must get the education themselves. A father and mother might as well say: "We'll give our children the strength we have in our arms and the wisdom we have acquired in a life time of struggle."

You might as well expect a star baseball pitcher to be able to give his ability to his son, or expect an expert pianist to give her daughter her proficiency in music that it has taken her years to acquire, or a famous doctor to give his child his skill as a surgeon, or a famous preacher to give his son his spiritual understanding.

You can show children the way but each child must make the journey through life himself. No one else can make the journey for him. All that a school or college education does for a child is to give him the tools to work with. A real education is personally getting wisdom, understanding, skill and strength.

A person does not have to go to college to get an education—he does not even have to go to high school. Some of the best really educated people I have ever known did not even go through grade school. George Washington, one of the greatest Americans, was not a college graduate. Abraham Lincoln, another great American got his education in the "college of hard knocks."

I am not knocking going to college or to school, it is most important to go but I am pointing out that going to college is no absolute necessity for a person to be highly educated in the real sense of the word, "educated."

Going to college is the thing to do if the boy or girl understands that a college education is no more than the starting point towards getting a real education.

Diplomas and degrees are not an education merely the preparation for a real education. When you are through with the school books you are then ready to start your real training or real education. That is why they call the end of school a "Commencement."

I once read a story of a business that was highly successful. The owner had devoted his life to it. He had worked long hours day after day. More important, he had studied this business and because he had studied it closely, the business was an outstanding success. The owner of this business would say, "I ain't got any book learning, but I am going to see that my son is educated, I'm going to see that he gets the best education money can buy."

He began to buy education for his son, Jim. He began to polish and sandpaper him from the moment the child could sit up in his cradle. He sent Jim to the best preparation school he could find, then on to the great university. Jim got all the education these schools could give him. He was smart and made good grades.

Not long after Jim came home from years and years of schooling, his father died. The prosperous business was left to him. Jim took it over brimming with confidence. Pretty soon under his inexperienced management, the business began to go backward. Things did not run right and Jim did not know what to do. The fault was not with the university, and not with him who was bright and capable.

The fault was the old man, Jim's father, who was so wise and great about everything else and so foolish about his own son. He did not realize that a college education while important and worthwhile was not the end in education, but just the beginning of a real education.

An important fact to understand is that education in the real sense is a never ending process. A student can get every degree from a big university and become well informed today and be ill-informed and behind times unless he keeps up with ever recurring developments.

A child has to develop his own mind, his own character, if he is to enjoy real success in this world. He must travel the road of life himself and depend on himself. Too many of what we call advantages are often proved to be disadvantages. In the long run young fellow must depend on himself, nor on well intentioned others.

Here where we live, there is a great library for the use of everyone. Anyone can get books on any subject in which he is interested and have many of the advantages one gets in attending a great university. One of the best informed and in my opinion one of the best educated men I ever knew made it a practice to read good books regularly, often one a week.

He was also a great student of the Bible.

'Gong Show' sponsored by Waveland

By MILDRED MEANS
WAVELAND LIBRARIAN

A "Gong Show" was held at the Civic Center in Waveland on Friday, July 21 at 4 p.m.

In spite of a cloudburst the auditorium was packed and there were approximately 50 children displaying their talents, all of whom received top scores.

The performance was immediately put into high gear by the exuberance of the Master of Ceremonies, Louis Burghard.

His introductions alone held the audience in rapt attention and his antics were a delight to young and old alike.

The panel consisted of Michael Q. Walsh, Secretary-Treasurer and director of operations, Dietrich Tours and Entertainment Services of New Orleans; Mrs. Noel Phillips, part owner of Dolphin Press of Long Beach; and Mrs. Fred Breland, Waveland wife and mother who lends her artistic talents to the Waveland Library.

There were only four acts to get the gong: Walter Vaughan, Customs Agent; a natural born comedian, Mrs. Frank Lotz; Mrs. Pere Cabibi; Tara Kennedy and Peter Phillips.

Refreshments were served by the Friends of the Library and a good time was had by all.

Since there have been so many comments about the fine talent represented, there will be a repeat performance on September 1 at 6 p.m.

Concrete firm relocates its N.O. offices

Marine Concrete Structures, which operates a 76-acre facility at Port Bienville in Hancock County for constructing concrete gravity structures of all types used in the production of oil in the Gulf Coast area and a complete shipyard for building and handling barge-boat repairs, has announced relocation of its corporate headquarters.

The company has moved its headquarters to 2030 St. Charles Avenue in New Orleans, according to Don Payne, president.

All administrative, accounting, engineering, purchasing and sales offices are housed in this facility.

The move to its new two-story building was due to the rapidly expanding volume of business generated by the offshore oil industry, Payne said.

"By having all our key people in one easily accessible central location we will be able to meet with our customers more readily and render a faster service to satisfy their needs," he added.

The company will maintain a field office at its Metairie plant, which continues to produce concrete piling, Span-Deck concrete planking, and other related products for the commercial and construction industries.

Sears steps up ladder recall

Sears, Roebuck and Co., Chicago, Ill. in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), this week announced the continuing recall of approximately 7,500 five-foot household aluminum stepladders sold in 20 states from January 1977 to March 1978.

This second notice of the recall, first announced by Sears on March 14, 1978, has been issued in hopes of receiving a better return of the ladders.

Sears said that the ladders may pose a potential hazard because under certain conditions the top cap may split, causing the ladder to collapse.

No accidents or injuries have been reported, but owners are cautioned against using the affected ladders and are urged to return them to any Sears store for exchange or refund.

The ladders being recalled sold for about $13, have green feet and carry either model number 133.42435 or stock number 42435 on the upper end of the side rail.

They were sold in Sears retail stores in Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Wyoming and parts of Iowa and Kentucky.

Anyone needing to verify model numbers on the recalled ladders should call CPSC's toll-free Hotline at 800-638-2666.

Soybean Field Day draws 100 farmers

More than 100 area farmers attended Soybean Field Day at the South Mississippi Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Poplarville here July 20, according to W. W. Kilby, station superintendent.

The South Mississippi Soybean Field Day, one of six scheduled in the state this summer, took soybean producers into the fields to see research under way at the station.

The tour included four stops, each of which was manned by a scientist who told tour groups about the work being conducted in that particular field.

Tour leaders were Kilby; J. W. McKie, area agronomist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES); and Dr. Roy Burris, Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station (MAFES).

Dr. E. E. Hartwig, agronomist, Delta Branch Experiment Station, met the tour at stop one and described his work in soybean breeding and varieties.

"We try to identify problems with present varieties," he said, "and then try to build in resistance to leaf-feeding insects and other problems."

Dr. Harold Hurst, weed control project leader, Delta Branch Experiment Station, discussed the proper use of soybean herbicides for controlling sicklepod.

"Preemergence applications are necessary, but cannot be relied upon totally for the degree of control needed," he said.

"We emphasize postemergence applications of herbicides and using the proper equipment for these applications."

Dr. Hurst showed test results which demonstrated vividly the necessity for one or more herbicide applications to control sicklepod effectively.

Mississippi State University agronomists Dr. Harry Hodges and Dr. Frank Whisler explained an experiment in progress to determine the optimum planting dates for soybeans and the effect of planting before or after the optimum season.

Planting dates were initiated about April 15 and followed at two-week intervals when weather permitted planting. The experiment is planted at 7-, 30-, and 40-inch row widths.

Six varieties representing the commonly grown varieties in Mississippi are being tested. Their research is partially supported by the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board, explained the scientists.

"Interest in double-cropping is increasing, so I have established an experiment to collect information on the effect of three corn herbicides on early control of sicklepod and on the second crops," Dr. Carl Hovermale, MAFES scientist, told the group.

"Grain sorghum and soybeans are well-adapted for a second crop following corn. Five soybean and four sorghum herbicides were imposed on each of the three corn herbicides. The objective is to find if the corn herbicide affects the second crop or the effectiveness of the second herbicide with special emphasis on sicklepod control," he explained.

"In conjunction, an experiment is established in which soybeans are planted after wheat harvest," he added. "Three cultural treatments are used: disking, mowing and undisturbed wheat stubble. Sencor and Paraquat are applied uniformly for broadleaf weed control and desiccation of existing green vegetation. Three grass herbicides (Lasso, Surflan and Prowl) were applied and their effectiveness will be compared."

At each tour stop, producers had a chance to ask questions and discuss specific problems with scientists.

Soybean field day sponsors are MAFES, MCES, the Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board and the Mississippi Soybean Association. Dates and locations of remaining field days are Aug. 10, Brooksville, Black Belt Branch and Aug. 24, Verona, Northeast Mississippi Branch.

The 11:30 a.m. program will be held in Sillers Coliseum with nearly 300 students expected to receive undergraduate and graduate degrees from DSU President Kent Wyatt.

Ashley, who holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Mississippi State University, served for 15 years in the Mississippi public schools before joining the MAE full-time staff in 1972.

He taught and coached in the Weir Public Schools, Maben Public Schools, Winona Public Schools and the Pearl-McLaurin Public Schools, before serving as Director of Guidance and Testing and Director of Pupil Services in the LeFlore County Schools.

Ashley served as a field representative for the MAE for six years prior to joining the organization full-time. He became executive secretary in 1975.

In addition to the MAE, he holds membership in the Mississippi Personnel and Guidance Association, the Jackson Field Chapter of Phi

"We are pleased that Mr. Ashley has accepted our invitation to address our summer graduation class," said Dr. Wyatt. "His insight into public school education in Mississippi should be helpful to our graduation students."

A native of Bay Springs, Ashley and his wife, Bobby, have two children.

Time and place: Monday, July 24 from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the Senior Citizens' Center.

The Cast: Seniors from Hancock County, what beautiful people they are, yes friends and neighbors, it was the swiftest rhythms, hand clapping, floor stomping live music the Seniors have heard since the combination of Louis Burghard, pianist; Eddie Engelhorn, tenor sax; Walter Chamberlain, - banjo; J. J. Maynard - bass; and Fred Horn, - drums, played for the Seniors a couple of months ago.

Eddie, Louis, Walter and J. J. donated their time and talents to entertain the Seniors.

All of us at the Senior Center thank all of them for their entertainment and wish them all the luck in the world in their particular fields of endeavor.

By special request, they played for our birthday party, everything from waltzes to Dixie Land Swing.

The Combo played many of the old standards: "The Sheik of Araby, Darktown Strutters Ball, Rampart Street Parade, Back Home in Indiana, Way Down Yonder in New Orleans, Bill Bailey, Let Me Call You Sweetheart, Just a Closer Walk With Thee, Bye Bye Blues, and When the Saints go Marchin' in."

Julia Leddy and Fred Stromeyer danced the first set and by doing that, put everyone in a relaxed mood. Other couples followed them to the floor to display their dancing talents.

Sam Cui, Anita Cohen, Gertrude and Harwood Phaup, Celine Fairconeture, Blanche Collins and Ridgley Curry, and many others too numerous to mention.

The Phaups waltzed to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," Sam Cui rode with the beat, threw away his cane and started to do bumps and grinds a la burlesque.

Sam, you old son of a gun, you sure surprised all of us. When the combo played "When the Saint Go Marching In," Julia Leddy and Audrey Curet started a marching line and had most of the Seniors moving around the room.

All of the Seniors agreed that it was one of the best birthday parties that they have attended in many a year. Birthday greetings were extended to Milton Inch, Celine Fairconeture, Pansy Bradford, Lucy Guagliardo, Juanita Vaughn, Annie Sulzer and Ruth Favre.

Winner of the door prize donated by The Frost Top Restaurant of Bay St. Louis was won by Mary G. Smith.

Orchids to the new contributor to the Senior Citizens Center. They are The Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association of Bay St. Louis, who will be donating the cakes, for all of our monthly birthday parties.

We welcome them to the rest of the contributors from Hancock County, who have made our center in Bay St. Louis become a reality, especially The State Department of Public Welfare, Hancock County, the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and the United Way.

Thank you Ronnie Slocum, manager of the A&P Store in Bay St. Louis for contributing ice for all our functions.

No event would be complete without the aid of our R.S.V.P. Volunteers. My personal thanks to Odette Taconi, Cecile Galivan, Nina Garner, Lucie Bratt, Harlan Watkins, Maggie Damborino, Anna Marsh and Jewell Stratton, telephone committee; to Margaret Ladner for registration; also to the servers, Julia Leddy, Ethel Dorman and two non members, Audrey Curet and Margaret Ladner; and the staff members.

Thank you Bea Favre and Carrie Williams for the two cakes baked. The ladies had not been informed that they no longer have the volunteers to bake cakes for our birthday party.

It was an eventful afternoon that will long be remembered by all who participated. Refreshments consisting of birthday cake and lemonade was served at the conclusion of the party.

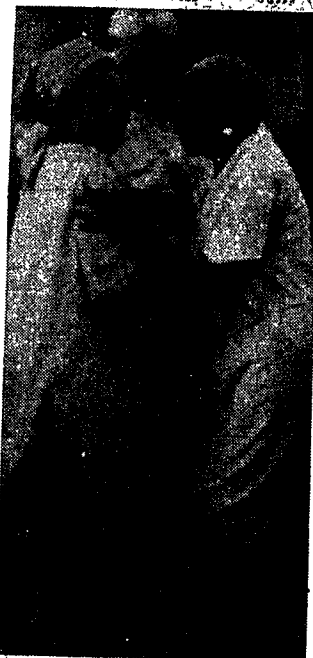

HERE AND THERE

We pass this information along to our Seniors, to be used for your own discretion: A recent issue of U.S. News and World Report warned persons in areas hit by disaster, such as floods, tornadoes or other natural disasters to the ways of "Film Flam Artists" who pose as government assistance officials and offer to appraise property damage or to obtain loans or aid to distressed persons for a fee.

Also, the magazine noted, people should be wary of contractors who require a down payment fee for repairs to homes or businesses.

State hires new women's cage coach

Hilda Heard, a four-year standout at Mercer University in Macon, Ga., and team captain in basketball there for three seasons, is coming to Mississippi State as a graduate assistant coach for women's basketball.

Graduating from Mercer in 1974, the former starting guard lettered for four seasons with the Teddy Bears.

She was a star prep player at St. Joseph High School in her hometown of Atlanta, Ga., before being signed at Mercer by current MSU Head Women's Coach Peggy Collins.

The 22-year-old Heard, who was born in Victoria, Tex., earned her degree in physical education and will pursue a Master's degree at State in the same curriculum.

As a freshman at Mercer in 1974-75 she helped the team finish fourth in the National Women's Invitational Tournament in Amarillo, Tex., as MU closed with a 23-6 mark.

Active in school affairs, Heard was director of all women's intramural sports during her senior year in addition to playing varsity basketball. At State she will assist in recruiting as well as coaching basketball.

"We are extremely happy to have a person with Hilda Heard's experience in women's basketball as a part of our 1978-79 program," noted Coach Collins.

High school football opens season with all-star game

With 15 signees performing in the 1978 Mississippi High School All-Star Game in Jackson Saturday at 8 p.m., Mississippi State will have had 38 youngsters playing in the last three games.

The group of inkings who performed in the 1977 affair, sponsored by the Mississippi Association of Coaches, was the largest of the three. A total of 16 incoming freshmen at State gathered in last summer's bout.

This year's crop will be under close scrutiny by the MSU coaching staff after the Bulldogs graduated a crop of 19 seniors from the '77 entry. Among the freshmen, who report to State for fall practice on Aug. 11, involved in the game are linebacker Fred Beamon of Cleveland, lineman Greg Benefield of Southaven, quarterback Michael Dees of Ripley, fullback Jay Golsen of West Point, tailback Donald Ray King of Ellisville, and end Jerry Gillikin of Meridian. Others on the North-South squads are lineman Mike Hooper of Jackson (Callaway), lineman Bobby Miketinas of Gulfport, lineman Gene Berry of Moss Point, middle guard Mitchell Street of Lucedale, lineman Bill Beel of Gulfport, linebacker Curtis Hill of Jackson (Lanier), and quarterback Steve Jordan of Clinton.

Rounding out the Bulldogs' 15-man contingent are halfback Robert Bertucci of Gulfport and end Buzz Goodson at Greenwood. A 16th MSU signee, Wendell Campbell, a teammate of Goodson at Greenwood High, was selected but died in June.

State's 15-man contingent this year is the "largest representation from one university in the all-star tilt at Mississippi Memorial Stadium, and the 38 players since 1976 are the most by a single institution to play in the classic.

MSU performers enjoyed a banner day in Jackson last year as Southeastern Conference All-Freshman Team guard Grim sacked 19 points to land Best Offensive Player laurels in the North-South All star basketball fracas.

Later that night in football MSU wide receiver Breck Tyler of Starkville grabbed seven passes to cop Most Valuable Player honors for the North team and also won the Bill Stewart Memorial Leadership Award.

POVERTY STUDY

Two professors at The University of Mississippi are among four scholars whose study of rural Southern labor markets concludes that poverty in the rural South has not been significantly affected by the region's new economic boom. Dr. Brian Runge and Dr. Lewis H. Smith of the Ole Miss economics and finance faculty were joined by researchers now at Georgia State University and Cornell University in the study, which was sponsored by a grant from the U.S. Department of Labor. Their work resulted in a book, "Employment, Income, and Welfare in the Rural South," published by Praeger Publishers.

Hunt harvest shown in wildlife survey

If a recently completed game harvest survey is any indication, Mississippi hunters during 1976-77 had perhaps the best deer and turkey season ever.

As part of the cooperative research project between the state Game and Fish Commission and the department of wildlife and fisheries at Mississippi State University, the survey polled over 5,500 state hunters and fishermen to get some idea as to how much game was taken, the total days hunted, and a projection of the numbers of hunters in the state.

The report showed a dramatic change in the number of deer, turkey, raccoon and ducks taken by hunters over an earlier 1974 survey.

Figures indicated that hunters harvested 19,192 turkey, 93,871 deer, and 672,814 ducks during 1976. In most cases the report indicated that the total number of hunters and the numbers of days afield increased in each sport over the earlier survey.

Stone did say, however, that the computer analysis applied to the MSU survey, if done on a year-to-year basis, would provide more detailed facts to aid game biologists in balancing wildlife needs with the interests of sportsmen.

Brownbuilder Jessie Free is working for you in Mississippi

Jessie Free, born in Barsville, is a Mississippi Brownbuilder—one of the men and women of Brown & Root, Inc.—working for you in Mississippi.

Jessie signed on with Brown & Root in 1975 as a Cement Finisher. He and his wife, Delores, now live in Pascagoula where their two sons attend the Pascagoula Elementary School. Jessie also manages a soul and rock band which plays locally.

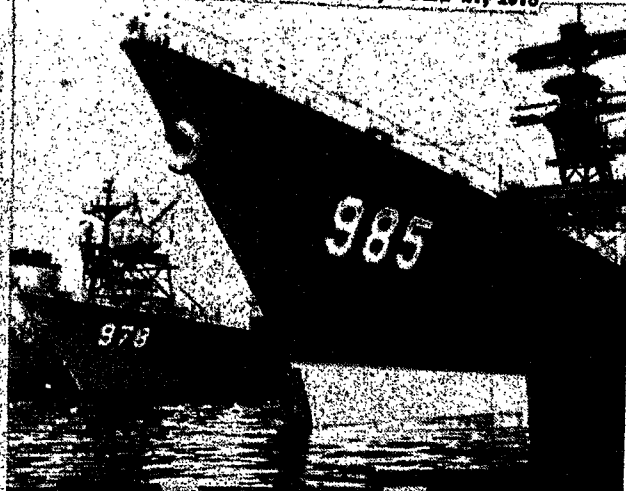

Mississippi Brownbuilders like Jessie are working for you and thousands of your neighbors. He's helping to build the hardware, such as oil fields and power plants, which will help insure Mississippi's future growth and prosperity.

Because of Brown & Root's policy of hiring locally first, most of our Brownbuilders here are Mississippi natives or longtime residents. Many of them first joined Brown & Root at project personnel offices near their homes. And Brown & Root hires and promotes solely on the basis of individual ability and merit. Anyone willing and qualified is eligible to work. That way, local communities, counties and the state get maximum benefit from projects on which we work—hundreds of thousands of dollars in payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes.
